Evidence-Based Cancer Control Programs (EBCCP) Connection

February 2021

New Tutorial Video!

The EBCCP team has released a new tutorial video to help users navigate the EBCCP website. This video demonstrates how to search for programs, browse by topic, and access program summaries and case studies. It also highlights the benefits of using the EBCCP website for evidence-based program planning and implementation.

Common Use of the EBCCP Website

The EBCCP website is used by a diverse range of professionals, including clinicians, researchers, cancer control practitioners, and an array of other users. The EBCCP website provides valuable content to program implementers, program developers, and consumers of evidence-based programs.

What is the purpose of the EBCCP website?

NCI developed the EBCCP website to give program planners and public health practitioners easy and immediate access to evidence-based programs and materials.

Who are the intended users of the EBCCP website?

The EBCCP website provides valuable content to community leaders, program implementers, program developers, program planners, and consumers of evidence-based programs. The EBCCP website can benefit your community and the population you serve:

- Information about 19 survivorship/supportive care programs. Click here to find a program to implement in your setting.
- Resources with stakeholders. Explore the programs in one of the 13 areas to see how the EBCCP team helped guide their program planning efforts. The website's resources also helped these users write grant applications, plan programs for their target populations, and share evidence-based practices.
- Easy and immediate access to evidence-based programs and materials.

Common Use of the EBCCP Website

The EBCCP website has more than 200 programs across a range of cancer-related health topics. The searchable database includes programs that target behavioral, psychosocial, and policy changes. It also includes tools and materials that program planners and public health practitioners can use to help prevent cancer and support cancer survivors and their caregivers.

The EBCCP website provides valuable content to community leaders, program implementers, program developers, program planners, and consumers of evidence-based programs. The EBCCP website can benefit your community and the population you serve:

- Information about 19 survivorship/supportive care programs. Click here to find a program to implement in your setting.
- Resources with stakeholders. Explore the programs in one of the 13 areas to see how the EBCCP team helped guide their program planning efforts. The website's resources also helped these users write grant applications, plan programs for their target populations, and share evidence-based practices.
- Easy and immediate access to evidence-based programs and materials.

Next Issue

Nutrition Pathfinders in Monterey County, CA

DOSE HPV: Development of Systems and Education for HPV Vaccination in Boston, MA

The Touch, Caring and Cancer Program in the South Side of Chicago

Spotlights

- Improving the Quality of Life for Caregivers, Cancer Patients, and Survivors
- Public Health Genomics
- Prostate Cancer Screening
- Physical Activity
- Obesity
- Informed Decision Making
- Diet and Nutrition
- Colorectal Cancer Screening
- Cervical Cancer Screening
- Breast Cancer Screening

Commonly Asked Questions

- Is EBCCP a website for education about evidence-based programs and materials?
- Who are the intended users of the EBCCP website?
- What are the programs on the EBCCP website's home page?

Feedback

If you have feedback, please let us know. We value your input and would like to improve the website and its content. Please send your comments and suggestions to feedback@ebccp.cancercontrol.cancer.gov.